Six visits. Six books. One familiar rhythm.

A proposed pilot for ages 4-7 + caregivers. Timings are starting estimates to adjust.

• Your book opens visit 1. Each later visit has a different primary book. Think of the visits as six chapters in your teaching guide.

THE 45-MINUTE FLOW

0-5 min - Welcome + opening game

5-7 min - One idea to notice in the story

7-17 min - Read-aloud

17-21 min - Animal + movement break

21-33 min - Little lesson + playful practice

33-38 min - Try it with a caregiver

38-43 min - Recall the tool + familiar goodbye

43-45 min - Parent sheet + departure

1 I belong as myself

A Little Different - Brooke Lyn Landon

• Open: Name + hello gesture. Show Sage's resting space.
• Practice: Draw something you enjoy or like about yourself.
• Close: “I like who you are.” Show your drawing or pass.

2 I can name a feeling

The Color Monster - Anna Llenas

• Open: Choose a feeling face or color; no explanation required.
• Practice: Match feeling cards to simple pretend situations.
• Close: “You look frustrated. Is that right?” Choose a word or gesture.

3 A feeling is not all of me

Grumpy Monkey - Suzanne Lang

• Open: Choose your “inside weather”: sunny, cloudy, mixed or your own.
• Practice: Draw “I feel ___, and I still like ___.”
• Close: “I'm here with you.” All feelings welcome.

4 I can try a body pause

Breathe Like a Bear - Kira Willey

• Open: Stretch fingers and soften shoulders; seated is fine.
• Practice: Try gentle breathing, stretching or a quiet pause.
• Close: Try one tool together. Show your choice or watch.

5 I can take a small step

Ruby Finds a Worry - Tom Percival

• Open: Choose a wave, nod, caregiver hello or watching.
• Practice: Draw one small next step and someone who can help.
• Close: “What would help?” Share a step, a helper or pass.

6 Feelings belong; actions need limits

When Sophie Gets Angry… - Molly Bang

• Open: Point to a tool; model it for newcomers.
• Practice: “When I notice ___, I can try ___ and ask ___ for help.”
• Close: “I'm here to help.” Celebrate; give certificates.

Keep it flexible: A short invitation comes before the book; the main lesson follows it. Limit explanation to about two minutes, then model and play. Use pictures or a toy for animal moments; Sage is never expected to perform. Sharing and dog contact are optional.

Format informed by ALA storytime guidance. Breathe Like a Bear is a collection: select a few exercises, not the whole book.

Start local. Make the next step easy.

Subject: Reading with Sage: stories and big-feeling tools for ages 4-7

Hello,

I'm Brooke Lyn Landon, a Santa Barbara-based children's author and former lead Montessori teacher. I'd love to explore Reading with Sage for your families.

• Who: Children ages 4-7 and their caregivers.

• Format: A 45-minute picture-book visit with movement, playful practice about feelings and a parent take-home sheet.

• First book: A Little Different, with a message about belonging as yourself.

• Sage: Evaluated and registered for visits with children; approaching her is optional.

Could we discuss one introductory visit or the six-visit outline? Would your children's programming team be the right contact?

Warmly,
Brooke Lyn Landon

FOLLOW UP - THREE EMAILS TOTAL

• First follow-up: after 7 business days. “Would the short outline and a sample parent sheet be useful to your programming team?”

• Final follow-up: 7 business days later. “If a later planning window fits better, I'm happy to discuss it. Otherwise, I'll leave it here. Thank you.” Then pause.

Use one thread. Stop when asked. Follow a host's timeline. SBPL and Chaucer's have form-led processes; do not apply repeated-email reminders to their forms.
